

Everything We Have Is His

Giving for Generations to Come

Deuteronomy 8:6-18 & 1 Chronicles 29:14-16

1. Giving acknowledges God's _____ of _____

We don't give because God needs our gifts; we give because everything we have is a gift from Him.

2. Giving keeps us from _____

When we give sacrificially, we're reminding ourselves that God is Jehovah Jireh. He is our provider.

3. Giving is an act of _____

God gives us the privilege of joining God in His work and His purposes.

4. Giving recognizes that our _____ is _____

Our time on earth is temporary, but God's work continues for generations to come.

We sacrifice today so future generations can know the Savior we love.

5. Giving is an act of _____

God isn't primarily concerned with the size of our gift; He's concerned with the heart behind the gift.

The Bible Recap:

1. What did the Lord impress upon you from this week's reading?

Read Deuteronomy 8:6-18 and 1 Chronicles 29:14-16

1. What do these passages teach us about where our finances, possessions, abilities, and opportunities ultimately come from?
2. What stands out to you about David's statement, "Everything comes from You, and we have given You only what comes from Your hand"?
3. Why do you think our attitude toward giving matters to God as much—or more than—the amount we give?
4. David gave toward something that would not be completed during his lifetime. What can we learn from that about investing in God's work beyond our own generation?
5. What's the difference between giving out of obligation and giving from a grateful heart?
6. How can generosity teach the next generation what it means to trust God?

Taking it Home:

1. Where is God asking you to trust Him more fully with your time, resources, possessions, or future?
2. What would the Lord have you give toward our For Generations to Come campus development plan?
